Do you have pets or would you like to have pets? Read about the adventures that take place when a family decides to travel with few of their exotic and uncommon pets.

All aboard!' shrieked Popeye, Grandmother's pet parrot, as the family climbed aboard the Lucknow Express.

We were moving for some months from

Dehra to Lucknow, and as Grandmother had insisted on taking her parrot along, Grandfather and I insisted on bringing our pets too—a teenaged tiger (Grandfather's) and a small squirrel (mine). But we thought it prudent to leave the python behind.

In those days, trains in India were not so crowded and it was possible to travel with a variety of creatures. Grandfather had decided to do things in style by travelling first-class; so, we had a four-berth compartment of our own, and Timothy, the tiger, had an entire berth to himself.

Later, everyone agreed that Timothy behaved perfectly throughout the journey. Even the guard admitted that he could not have asked for a better passenger: no stealing from vendors, no shouting at coolies, breaking of railway property, no spitting on the platform.
