Omnivores

Omnivorous animals (Fig. 1.13) or omnivores (omni, all; vore, eater) are those that eat both plants and flesh of other animals. Bear, racoon, crow, and human beings are examples of omnivores.

Special Characteristics of Omnivores

- Omnivores like a bear and human beings have different types of teeth that help them to eat both plants and flesh of other animals.
- Omnivorous birds like crow have a sharp and pointed beak to help them eat a variety of food.
