The cellphone has become very popular. Give a description of it in about 100 words.

Ans. The cellphone has become an integral part of our daily life. It comes in many colours, shapes and models. One may buy it at a minimum price of 2000. The more sophisticated cellphones go up to 50,000 or even more. In most of the cells, there is a screen for display. Below the screen is the keypad, which is used to dial a number or write an SMS message. The green and red buttons are there to turn on and off the phone. Most of the cellphones are now equipped with in-built cameras. The costly cellphones have got other features like GPS, Wi-Fi, Bluetooth, 3G, etc. One can use a cellphone to browse the Net also. The cellphone is, thus, used to talk, to send a message, to listen to songs, to browse the Net, to do photography and even to see a video-clipping. It is, perhaps, the most useful invention of this century.
