THE INFINITIVE

The Infinitive may sometimes be used as the Subject of a Finite_Verb.

To steal is wrong.

To find fault is easy.

To play with explosives is dangerous.

To waste your money is foolish.

To eat too much is harmful.

These sentences look awkward. It is better to use a preparatory it as the Subject in each case.

It is wrong to steal

It is easy to find fault.

Rewrite the following sentences, using the introductory word it:- One has been done for you.

1 To walk on the pavement is safe.

It is safe to walk on the pavement.

- 2 To tell lies is wrong.
 3. To call people names is not polite.
 4. To read your writing is difficult.
 - 5 To miss this opportunity would be a pity.
 - 6 To deceive your best friend is disgraceful.
 - 7 To take more than your share of food is selfish.
 - 8 To live without air is impossible.
 - 9 To play with explosives is dangerous.
