Homophones

Homophones are words that are pronounced the same as another word, but has a different meaning or spelling, or both. For example:

I gave two pens to Shreya. I gave her a book too.

Our English class lasted an hour.

I would like to order a chair made of wood.

In these sentences, two, to, too/ our, hour/ would, wood are homophones.

Since homophones are pronounced the same way, we must be careful with their spellings.

Fill in the blanks with the suitable homophones from the brackets.

1. Please .....(right/write) in the ..... (right/write) column.

2 ..... (There/Their) grandma lives in the nearby cottage.

3. It's been a.....(weak/week) since I had a sound sleep. I feel extremely ..... ( weak/week).

4. My uncle sounded a bit ..... (hoarse/horse).

5. Take the phone and call the police. The burglars won't .....(hear/here) us from ..... (hear/here).

6 ..... (no/know) , I don't ..... (No/ Know) the Prince personally.
