Ans. Respected Principal, teachers and friends!

It is an age-old saying that change is the law of nature. And women are also not allergic to change. After suffering from oppression and slavery they are changing at a fast pace. They have made their dent in almost all walks of life. They are creating history and adding a new chapter in the world for a day-by-day. Women are now not confined to four walls of their houses. They are now free and liberated. They have made their presence in administrative services, armed forces, police services, engineering and corporate sectors. Not even a single stream is untouched from them. They have now come into the mainstream of life. Time is not far away when they will rule the roost and will be at the acme of their career.
