“That may be true.But it’s the real decree that we should find a man fat enough to fit the stake,”they said,and carried him to the place of execution.He remembered his wise Guru’s words: “This is a city of fools.You don’t know what they will do next.”While he was waiting for death,he prayed to his Guru in his heart,asking him to hear his cry

wherever he was. The Guru saw everything in a vision; he had magic powers, he could see far, and he could see the future as he could see the present and the past. He arrived at once to save his disciple, who had got himself into such a scrape through love of food.

(1) What was the royal decree?

(2) What did the disciple remember?

(3) What did he do while waiting for death?

(4) What could the Guru see?

(5) What tempted the disciple to get into the trouble?
