CHAPTER - 4

TOPIC – VERBS

G. I haven't underlined it. You underline the verbs in the sentences given below, framed by watching the pictures given at page no. 41.

It is a big and a beautiful park. There is a small but a beautiful stream in the park. There are many children in the park. Some children are playing, some are reading books and some are doing something or other. The park seems green and clean where one can get cool and fresh air, probably in the morning time. There is a big tree and a tree house is built on the tree. The house is very beautiful. It is all painted pink and there is a long railing at both sides of the house. The house has a beautiful door painted in brown and orange colours. In the summer season, the old people can take rest in the tree house. Two boys are playing football and a girl is standing like the referee. A boy and a girl are watching and enjoying the football, that is, being played by the other children, from the verandah of the tree house. A boy is sitting under a tree and having some fruits. A bicycle has parked under the tree. A dog is running after a bone. The dog is white and small in size. A green mat has spread on the floor and some children are reading books, sitting on it. The children's sitting positions on the mat is likely as: the boy is sitting with cross legged, a girl with folded legs and another girl is lying upside down, and all of them are reading books. Some books are piled up on the mat. Most of the girls have short hair and a girl have made two ponytails. Some boys have worn trousers with t-shirts and some have worn half pants. Some girls have worn trousers with t-shirt and some have worn skirts. All the children have put on brown shoes. All the children look very happy and have a smile on their faces.

Underline the verbs in the story below, framed by the given verbs at page number 40.

"A Site of the Town in the Down Pouring"

It was raining heavily. The people were walking fast to reach home. Some people did not have umbrellas with them, so they had sheltered under a roof.

Some people were sitting in a Dhaba and talking to each other with a sip of piping hot tea. Trench and pits on the road were filled up with water and some children were jumping in it, and splashing water to each other. An old man was crossing the road and he slipped and fell down on the road. The children, who were splashing the water to each other helped that old man to stand on his feet and the old man gave them advice to go home and not to play in the downpouring because they might catch cold. The children obediently went along to home, talking with that old man, helping him to carry his bag and crossing the road.
