I Temporal phenomena

II How things were in past

III How things have changed

Iv Gap between "before and after"

Over the period of time the things and consumption has been changes. Previously history was considered and confined only two dimaintion of when the things happen. Now we are moving forward step ahead and considering how and what happens other hostory.

So let say

The things were existed in the past and how were in the present.

Robert clive asked rennal to produce maps of Hindustan. It is hard to fix things on one fine day. It started gradually and stretched over a period of time. Journey from "when to how and what"

. Warren hasting: 1st governor general in india - 1773

How to classify.

. Either divide chronologically

. Or divide periodically

*1817 : james mill (scottish economist and political philosopher) gave three volume work " A hostory of British india" - divided indian history in to three periods – Hindu, Muslim and British.

Mill considered.

- Asian lower than European
- Hindu and Muslim period – religious intolerance, caste ,taboos and superstitious practices
- British period. – civilized India with art institution and law
- Explained to conquer all territories to spread enlightenment and happiness.
